In your office and testing room

4. Ask the client to leave his/her cell phone and/or internet watch in your office to eliminate this distraction and to use the bathroom if necessary. Tell the client the neurocognitive testing is computer-administered and should take no longer than 45 minutes.
5. CNS Vital Signs testing should be conducted in a separate testing room that is quiet and confidential. Place two chairs in the testing room. Avoid pictures and decorations, clients with ADHD tend to get easily distracted and look around the room/walls. Hang the testing/quiet door hanger on the doorknob.
